RECAP: GREAT LAKES TO GULF WATERSHED LEADERSHIP SUMMIT

The Mississippi and Atchafalaya River Basins (MARB) Watershed Leadership Network hosted a Great Lakes to Gulf Watershed Leadership Summit last week, right here in Long Beach, Mississippi.

Over 50 attendees from throughout the Mississippi River Basin convened at the Gulf Coast. Discussion about successes and challenges of watershed management and leadership allowed for cross-basin learning between state leaders, officials, researchers, farmers, Gulf fisherman, and a local chef.

The image in the top left corner shows attendees learning about modern challenges of the local fishing industry, including the multitude of environmental challenges that the commercial industry faces. The fishing tour was led by multi-generational fisherman, Ryan Bradley.
